

the 2026 KANSAS CITY REPORT

A deep dive into 8 impactful projects leading the city's economic growth

LANE4

Kansas City’s Momentum Continues as Incentives, Investment, and Big-League Moves Propel the Market

2025 saw the continued growth and positive trajectory of the Kansas City market. This report highlights how the area continues to attract new residents, employers, retailers and capital. In addition to strong fundamentals - affordable cost of living, strong school systems, a central location in the heart of America, a new airport, and world-class arts, sports and entertainment - powerful incentives are playing a role in attracting and facilitating this continued growth.

Kansas City’s unique geography, with the state line bisecting the market almost cleanly in half, has driven a “border war” that for years saw Kansas work to attract businesses from Missouri and Missouri working to attract businesses from Kansas. In 2019, the two states declared a truce and focused business attraction efforts outside of the region.

With Kansas offering a historic incentive package to lure the Chiefs across the state line and Lockton making the move from Kansas City, Missouri, to Leawood, Kansas, it appears that 2025 was the year that the six year truce ended.

The highest return on investment for public incentives has proven to be when new jobs are added from outside the region.

To support future growth, we are hoping to see more announcements like Fiserv, an out of state employer with plans to bring 2,000 high-paying jobs to Overland Park, and fewer incentive packages focused on luring employers “across the street.”

The role of incentives to retain professional sports teams is well studied. If one team moving from Missouri to Kansas helps share this burden and ultimately leads to Kansas City keeping both the Chiefs and Royals at home, this is a positive outcome. The teams are part of the fabric of Kansas City and underpin the area as a “big league market.”

With the Chiefs heading to Kansas, our hope is that Missouri can not only retain the Royals, but for the team and state leadership to work collaboratively to bring baseball downtown where it can have the greatest impact on continued urban development and long-term momentum.

#6 Retail Market in the Nation

KC is holding its own against Sun Belt competitors like Dallas, Tampa, and Charlotte due to steady growth, strong investment returns, and high demand for space (CoStar 2025)

#8 Hottest Housing Market in US

Metrics including relative affordability, city construction and population growth landed KC on Zillow’s national housing market list (Zillow 2025)

5.2% YoY Median Home Sale Growth

End of 2024: $305,000
End of 2025: $320,711 (Metropolitan Mortgage 2025)

All signs point to 2026 continuing the progress and development that Kansas City experienced in 2025 and in years prior.

The international spotlight of the World Cup promises to shine only more light on what people, employers and capital have found here: one of the great places to live, work and invest.

Four High-Profile Retail Destinations Acquired

The metropolitan area saw a notable influx of new out-of-market capital, reflecting a broader trend: Kansas City is increasingly viewed as an attractive, stable, and undervalued market for institutional and private investors.

From publicly traded REITs to private developers, the metro is attracting first-time entrants traditionally focused on coastal or high-growth Sun Belt markets.

TANGER OUTLETS

$130M - 690,000 SF
93% OCCUPIED

Tanger, a national owner and operator of open-air outlet centers primarily concentrated in the southeast and east coast, completed its first-ever Kansas City acquisition with the purchase of Legends Outlets.

The transaction represents a strategic market expansion for Tanger and reinforces Kansas City's reputation for strong retail performance, tourism-driven demand, and long-term operating stability.

PARK PLACE

Leawood, Kansas

$100M - 480,000 SF

DFW Land, a Dallas/Fort Worth-based development firm, acquired the Park Place mixed-use district in Leawood, marking its first investment in the Kansas City region.

This transaction highlights growing interest from Sun Belt-based capital seeking stable Midwestern markets that offer high-quality mixed-use environments, established demographics, and long-term downside protection.

TOWN CENTER CROSSING

TOWN CENTER PLAZA & CROSSING

Leawood, Kansas

$289M - 550,000 SF

Federal Realty, widely regarded for its focus on high-barrier, affluent coastal markets such as San Francisco, San Diego, Miami, Boston, New York, and Washington, D.C., entered the Kansas City market for the first time with its acquisition of Town Center and Town Center Plaza.

Paired with a concurrent Midwest acquisition in Omaha, this move signals a strategic shift among institutional investors who previously concentrated solely on primary markets.

These buyers are increasingly recognizing the Midwest's compelling fundamentals, including strong household incomes, sustained retail demand, and favorable suburban growth dynamics.

Market Implications

These transactions represent some of the most significant retail and mixed-use acquisitions in the Kansas City metro over the past year.

The influx of well-capitalized buyers often brings access to lower-cost capital, which can support higher asset valuations and increased competition for premier properties.

While this dynamic reinforces Kansas City's growing national profile and investment credibility, it can also present challenges for local and regional buyers competing for top-tier assets—further reshaping the competitive landscape of the metro's commercial real estate market.

The Country Club Plaza

2025 marked the legacy asset’s transition into a forward-looking redevelopment project, driven by the Streetcar’s arrival, long-term master planning, and a new phase of urban reinvestment.

The Vision

Since acquiring the Country Club Plaza in 2024, Gillon Property Group has been advancing a comprehensive Master Planned Development vision intended to reposition the district for long-term vitality. The proposed framework includes up to:

1.7 MILLION	750	278
Square feet of office and retail space	Residential units	Hotel keys

Ownership has committed more than $100 million into near-term improvements, including enhanced security, storefront upgrades, and infrastructure investments.

City Planning & Rezoning Activity

The City’s planning process has been an active and evolving component of the Plaza’s redevelopment efforts. In December 2025, the Kansas City Plan Commission voted to advance updates to the Plaza’s master plan, including revisions that would allow for increased building heights and density.

As part of the vote, commissioners approved a framework that included height adjustments and reductions on certain blocks, as a result of public feedback and design review. The approved recommendations now advance to the City Council for further consideration in 2026.

Incentives & Financing Strategy

As part of the broader redevelopment strategy, Plaza ownership has pursued public-sector participation through the Port Authority of Kansas City (Port KC). Requests have included long-term property tax abatement and sales-tax incentive structures, along with filings that referenced the potential use of up to $1.4 billion in conduit bonds to support the scale and phasing of the proposed overhaul.

In late 2025, Port KC tabled consideration of the bond issuance, allowing additional time for stakeholder discussions and refinement. These negotiations remain ongoing and are expected to continue into 2026.

The extension of the Streetcar is about more than new tracks on Main Street—it’s a generational investment in our community. It’s about connecting our neighborhoods, businesses, educational institutions, and cultural spaces in a way that moves Kansas City forward.

Expected Debut: Spring 2026, testing underway

The Riverfront Extension is a 0.7-mile northern expansion of the Streetcar that extends the existing downtown route to Berkley Riverfront Park near CPKC Stadium, home of the NWSL, KC Current.

This marks the first time the Streetcar will directly serve the Riverfront, creating a seamless transit connection to one of the city’s fastest-growing entertainment districts.

The project includes a signature terminus station, known as the CPKC Pavilion, located adjacent to major riverfront attractions and the stadium.

Transforming our OWN Communities

As LANE4 celebrates its 20-year anniversary in March 2026, we are honored to continue shaping the community we call home.

LANE4

The Hudson

A premier apartment community built adjacent to the world-renowned University of Kansas Health Systems campus

The Hudson delivers a significant community benefit by introducing Class-A multifamily housing in an area of Kansas City, Kansas that had not experienced new residential development in decades.

Positioned immediately adjacent to the University of Kansas Health System campus, the project directly supports the institution's planned growth, including the recent groundbreaking of the new Cancer Center, by expanding housing availability for medical professionals, researchers, faculty, students, and staff who demand proximity to clinical and academic facilities.

The completion of the Hudson continues the dramatic transformation of the Rosedale neighborhood that has tracked the health system's emergence as a premier health care provider. LANE4 is proud to have participated in over $250 million of development in the corridor in the past 15 years. Through thoughtful architectural design and an enhanced streetscape presence, the project establishes a new standard for urban infill development on constrained sites.

Green Street

A landmark mixed-use destination redefining and rejuvenating the cultural and community landscape of Downtown Lee's Summit

The grand opening of Green Street in August 2025 marked the realization of a long-standing vision shared by the City and residents of Lee's Summit. First envisioned in proposals dating back to 2007 to relocate the Downtown Farmers Market, Green Street was thoughtfully designed as a purpose-built venue that supports far more than an indoor market alone.

Today, Green Street functions as a true community hub, one that brings together arts and culture, small businesses, civic and educational programming, festivals, and everyday moments of connection among friends and neighbors. Its flexible design allows the space to adapt to the evolving needs of the community while fostering activity year-round.

The City's continued investment in downtown Lee's Summit has paid dividends, strengthening its reputation as an exceptional place to live, work, and gather. Green Street builds upon that momentum, further distinguishing Lee's Summit as one of the Kansas City metro's most desirable and forward-thinking suburban communities.

Hosting the World’s Soccer Elite

Kansas City is poised to become one of the central hubs of the World Cup. On January 20, international reports emerged indicating three of the world’s most storied national teams - Argentina, England, and the Netherlands - are expected to select Kansas City as their base camp location for the tournament.

Argentina, the reigning World Cup champion, is expected to base in the region and open its title defense at Arrowhead Stadium, elevating Kansas City as the site of one of the tournament’s most high-profile matches.

Argentina, England, and the Netherlands represent a rare concentration of global soccer pedigree and international fan followings, with each historically advancing deep into the tournament and commanding massive global audiences.

The presence of multiple elite national teams would materially elevate Kansas City’s role in the tournament beyond match-day hosting, driving extended team stays, global media coverage, and sustained visitor activity throughout the metro. Team base camps generate prolonged demand for hotels, training facilities, dining, transportation, security services, and entertainment, with significantly increased economic activity across multiple weeks.

$4 Billion

Estimated economic impact, per the State of Kansas

Kansas has formally positioned itself as a serious contender to host a new stadium for the Kansas City Chiefs, signaling one of the most consequential professional sports and economic development discussions in the metro in decades.

The proposal centers on a new domed NFL stadium in Wyandotte County (Village West area), with a headquarters and training facility in Johnson County. If advanced, the project would significantly reshape regional tourism, infrastructure investment, and long-term tax revenue flows across the state line.

$3 BILLION
PROPOSED STADIUM COST

The proposed investment is among the most expensive professional sports facilities developed in the U.S.

The Site

Current indications place the proposed stadium within Wyandotte County, likely near the Village West and Kansas Speedway area, near the I-70 and I-435 interchange.

This location offers an established regional tourism and entertainment corridor, a key differentiator compared to the current stadium site in Kansas City, Missouri.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW:

Public Incentives & Financing Structure

Kansas' proposal relies heavily on the use of Sales Tax and Revenue (STAR) bonds, a financing mechanism that allows future sales tax revenues generated within a designated project district to be pledged toward debt repayment. Under this structure, eligible sales taxes would be captured for a multi-decade period to service project bonds.

To supplement STAR bond financing, the State of Kansas established the Attracting Professional Sports to Kansas Fund, which is capitalized through sports wagering and iLottery revenues. This fund was created specifically to enhance Kansas' competitiveness in retaining or attracting major league franchises without relying on broad-based tax increases.

While the incentive structure minimizes immediate fiscal impact for the general taxpayer, it represents a long-term commitment of future tax revenues. The ultimate public exposure will be highly dependent on the size of the STAR bond district and its boundaries.

CONCEPTUAL RENDERING
Credit: MANICA

Timing & Approval Path

The publicly communicated target of opening is the 2031 NFL season. However, several key milestones remain outstanding including Wyandotte and Johnson County determining their participation agreements, finalization of STAR bond district boundaries, and detailed development agreements.

Until these steps are completed, the project remains subject to modification.

The sequencing and coordination of approvals at both the state and local levels will be determinative in maintaining the proposed delivery schedule.

It will give KC the opportunity to bid on events that we can't host right now... like the Super Bowl, the College Football Playoff and the NCAA Final Fours.

... So, what does this mean for the Royals?

The Kansas City Royals face a parallel decision timeline, with their long-term stadium needs similarly tied to a 2031 lease expiration. While Kansas initially structured its incentive framework to attract one or both franchises, recent signals suggest Kansas' primary focus has shifted toward securing the Chiefs.

The Royals continue to evaluate multiple options, including urban and suburban sites. Recent capital improvements at Kauffman Stadium do not resolve the long-term question of permanent location.

The outcomes for the Chiefs and Royals remain interconnected, with decisions by one franchise likely to influence the other.
